LOCAL ITEMS. Our Autumn Days.

The melancholy days have come as well to us as to those who live in happier climates. Our Autumn, however, has little effect upon the colors of the wide unchanging waste, whose hills and valleys forever wear the same color, save when the snow covers them, turning the gray into white. Still there are in the grand desolation of our scenery many reminders of scenes more beautiful. Cold, very cold, are our Autumn days. The streets are almost deserted, and nearly all the doors even of business housesall the doors—even of business houses—are closed. The people stay mostly in their houses. The inner man of the cold, shivering walker is heated up at many a bar, and the outer man is warmed by groups around the bar-room stove. Stories of old times—of hard Winters, in Cariboo, in the Sierras, in Idaho and Montana, are told before bright, warm fires. Some, too, from foreign lands have their tales of hardship and suffering to tell; for every land ship and suffering to tell; for every land and every clime is represented in Pioche. The walker on the streets meets but few The waker on the streets meets out lew of those who usually frequent them, and those few hurry along with chattering teeth, and their overcoats buttoned up to the very top. Seldom may one see a smile on their cold faces. As evening comes on the desertion of the streets becomes more apparent, one may walk a block without meeting any one. Thin flakes of ice form where a little water flakes of ice form where a little water has fallen on dry ground. And this re-minds one of the cold days and the crisp moonlit nights of skating "back in the States," or in the northern part of the Pacific slope. As the bright but feeble sun goes down, leaving the sky to dark clouds, and hill and plain to desolation, clouds, and hill and plain to desolation, the poor stunted pines on the hill tops bring to many a mind recollections of the painted leaves that fluttered down, and rustled around the doorstep of home, and reveries of those days of Autumn where there are streams to freeze, and blades of grass to wither, and green leaves to change their colors and fall; says home fires chesting the house and warm home free cheering the house, and warm home hearts welcomining at the threshold. And as one looks out, through the closed window, and the dark-ening valley, and the mountains on the other side, whose bleak, stern outlines other side, whose bleak, stern outlines grow softer, they almost seem to wear the features of long forgotten scenery. Do they bring to the memory of the miner, and the business man, the gamb-ler and even the member of the lowest classes of all, to which no name but that of 'thumpur' can be explicit, seed that of "bummer" can be applied, good and peaceful thoughts? They must, if any thoughts but those of gain can gain admittance to our hearts.

PERSONAL .- Sr. Don H. Solis, for the past two years and a half a resident of Pioche, and doing business on Main street, has lately received news from his native land which makes it necessary for him to close out his business here and return to South America. Sr. Solis is a native of Peru; but, imbued with enthu-siasm and a desire to seek fortune in a foreign land, he came to California in 1859. During his residence in Pioche he has acquired a handsome property, which he offers for sale. He will leave next month for his native land, where he expects to reside peomanently. He will ever cherish pleasant memories of the people and institutions of the United the people and institutions of the United States, and in his departure from our land he bears with him the good wishes of many Pioche friends.

panion's wallet, lest it be lost. The owner of the purse, who also thought himself perfectly sober, stated that he never allowed a drunken man to take care of anything valuable for him. The conversation lasted for about a half an hour, at the end of which time no satisfactory conclusion had been reached.

The following amount of fields was agreed to, men of intelligence and high standing were appointed, and the whole case was agreed upon, settled, the Governments accepted the decision, the award was paid, and this whole cause of a quarrel in connection with the Alabama and other cruisfactory conclusion had been reached.

The following amount of fields: some time after this, the two were seen staggering around, down the street, protesting eternal friendship, and everlasting fidelity. Such is life.

A SHOT .- Yesterday morning at about 2 o'clock, a shot was heard near the intersection of Lacour and Main streets. A party of half a dozen men were seen in the vicinity, and every one of them was heard protesting "he didn't do it." No arrests were made, and he who was so free with his pistol remained un-

REAL ESTATE. - Drs. Bishop and Lee, on Tuesday last, purchased the lot on Main street, next above Felsenthal's store. The lot is 16½ feet front by 100 feet deep, and thereon is a two-story house with a frontage of 16½ feet and a depth of 50 feet. The consideration was $3,500.

The Sentinel of Tuesday contains these items of local interest:

items of local interest:

Arrangements were perfected in Eureka last night by which two of the leading billiard players on the coast will be brought together within a few weeks to contest with the ivories for an amount worthy of their effort. A few months ago a man by name of Gates attracted considerable notice in billiard rooms by the dexterity and easy grace with which he handled the cue, and the accuracy and skill with which he made the most difficult shots. He had recently come among us; and from the time of his advent to the present time he has been by large odds master of the game in Eureka. In a three-ball carron game gotten up last night by Gates and a friend, merely for pastime, the former made a run of forty odd shots, closing the game before his companion had moved a ball. This is the man who has engaged to play the leading billiardist of the coast, within a few weeks, in Eureka. The other's name is McCleery, a man well known in sporting circles, and who, on the 25th of the present month, plays in Platt's Hall, San Francisco, for a purse of $2,000 and the championship of the Pacific coast. On the part of McCleery the contract has been made and the money rut up by a championship of the Pacific coast. On the part of McCleery the contract has been made and the money put up by a friend of his residing here, through cor-respondence. The bet is $500 a side, and the number of points to be played 1,500. The time fixed for the match is the 8th prox.

W. L. Pritchard shipped yesterday for the Eureka Consolidated 48,000 pounds of bullion, and for the Ruby Consoli-dated 40,000 pounds, and for the Rich-mond 40,000 pounds. Total, 128,000 pounds.

PERU now possesses a railway across the Andes, which is represented to be the greatest modern triumph of engineering skill. Passing from the sea coast directly over the mountains into the interior, it ascends by a long series of remarkably easy grades and beautiful curves to the highest point ever reached by a locomotive, and through some of the finest scenery of the South American regions. Among other attractions of the route is the celebrated lake Titacaca, the shores of which are skirted by the railway, and which is the highest by the railway, and which is the highest body of water in the world. The great-est elevation on the line is 14,063 feet, at which altitude the summer temperature drops as low as 34 degrees, and in July snow storms are no novelty.
